

RIT Observatory Open House

Fri, Nov 17 7 PM – 9 PM

The RIT Observatory invites members of the Rochester community to visit and look through our telescopes at a pair of giant planets, each surrounded by its moons.

Jupiter ...

and Saturn.

You may also see a galaxy – or even, if you're lucky, a Leonid meteor or two!

Our event depends on clear skies – check [URL here] for the final decision on Friday afternoon. Don't forget to dress warmly! The RIT Observatory is located at 645 John Street in Henrietta, near the intersection with Bailey Road.
